November Program: Tanya Casteel Cephalopod Ink Ceramics

Submitted by Eoline Killough, Vice President

“Life started in the sea,” says Tanya Casteel, “creating a curious connection between us and the ocean. We coexist alongside this alien world, which continues to turn out unbelievable scientific discoveries, revealing that the sea is actually filled with childhood-like imagination, fantasy, and mystery. I’m interested in the point where youthful adventure mixes with scientific discoveries, which awakens narratives from the ‘deep’ in my ceramic pieces.”

“My process involves wheel thrown white stoneware fired to cone 6. My glazes and image transfers are homemade. The graphic images are a combination of my own drawings and public domain scientific drawings from the 1800’s. I transform these drawings into iron-oxide decals, and fire them on at cone 04 (permanently staining the glaze). Each item is kiln fired 3 times. All of my pottery is food, microwave, and dishwasher safe.”

Casteel grew up in Kansas and the Midwest region before moving to the coast of Maine. Although she earned a BFA in photography from the Maine College of Art, her passion for clay developed throughout undergraduate school, and overtook her studio practice after the completion of her degree. After college she began assisting for local potter, Kari Radasch, in Westbrook, Maine to further develop her skills in clay. In 2009 Casteel earned a Masters of Teaching and Learning from the University of Southern Maine, Portland. Upon graduating, she relocated to Raleigh area in North Carolina where she currently resides and works as a full-time ceramicist. In 2011 Casteel was a Regional Emerging Artist in Resident at Artspace in North Carolina, and received a NC United Arts Council Grant in 2013.

Minutes from October

Recorded by Maureen McGregor, Recording Secretary

PRESIDENT'S REMARKS: Nancy Schecter welcomed two new members who introduced themselves as Lynne Karisko and Paulina Seila. She also greeted Leslie, a visitor from the NC State Crafts Center studio.

Nancy noted DUES are DUE by the November 5 meeting, but late dues ARE accepted (contrary to what was stated in a September email about dues). There is no cut-off date for late dues payment, but currently the policy is that payment after Dec. 31 disqualifies members from TPG participation in Artsposure, and possibly in all spring sales, as well as for the discounted winter Workshop rate. The issue of late dues, and what if any restrictions apply, will be clarified by the Board soon, and the result of any action will be placed in TPG Policies and Directives for easy reference by members. For now, she recommends paying your dues on time!

She commented on our new earlier meeting time and our new name tag system, encouraging members to greet new members who have a star on their name tag. She pointed out the welcome table that Kathy had prepared and invited others to bring a pot or a magazine for this purpose to the next meeting.

Stone Soup is November 20. We were reminded to be making bowls for this event. Pots can be brought to the front desk at the Crafts Center and to Pullen Arts Center.

Walter magazine: Nancy passed around a sign-up sheet for anyone willing to be interviewed by Walter magazine in connection with the Stone Soup charity event.

Neal O'Briant was thanked for bringing refreshments. Jeff Land has offered to bring them for the next meeting.

Webmaster: Once again Nancy asked for a computer-savvy volunteer to contact her at nancyschecter1@gmail.com if they would like to take over management of our web site.

She asked for volunteers (and got two) to help put chairs away after the meeting. This is a nice way to help TPG. Please consider volunteering next meeting.

RECORDING SECRETARY'S REPORT: Maureen McGregor's minutes for the September meeting, which had been circulated in the newsletter, were approved by the membership.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT: Edge Barnes explained the new check-out procedure, asked that all books be returned for audit—which his team of six has now got almost half completed—and asked for suggestions for new purchases of books and videos. The Library has $500 at its disposal.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARY'S REPORT: Susanne asked that any problems with circulation of the newsletter be reported. Items for inclusion in the next Clay Notes should be submitted by the fifteenth of the month.

TREASURER'S REPORT: Kathy presented the budget with the two changes approved earlier by the Board:

$500 for Library

$150 for miscellaneous expenses.

ACTION: The following budget was approved:

VICE PRESIDENT Eoline Killough introduced one of the earliest members of the Guild, Edge Barnes, to provide our evening's program. We enjoyed an impressive show of pictures from one of his bonfire workshops and he brought beautiful examples of both his horsehair and his seaweed pots. Finally he demonstrated throwing and burnishing pots for such a firing and answered questions, many of them quite technical. It was a very enjoyable presentation.

The next Guild meeting is at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, November 5.

Respectfully submitted by Maureen McGregor, Recording Secretary
Edited by Nancy Schecter as Maureen heads to China! Bon voyage, Maureen!

Here's the recipe for the rosemary almonds. Several members asked me to send it for the newsletter.

Rosemary-spiced Almonds

1 egg white
1 tablespoon water
3 cups raw almonds
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered rosemary
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Whisk egg white with water. Stir almonds into egg white mixture. Combine sugar with other dry ingredients. Mix into almonds. Spread into a single layer on a lined baking pan. Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Anyone having a home sale in Durham the weekend of Nov. 9 and 10? I am writing an article about home sales (obviously to promote mine!) to submit to the newspaper and would like to include you and your address in the article. If yours is not that weekend, tell me anyway and perhaps I can still change it around and include your dates and address.

I had 2 openings in October. I am pleased to announce that I had 3 of my new dancer sculptures accepted into the Durham Art Guild juried show which runs through mid Nov. In my "Dancer Series" I started with a pure white "dancer" and then varied everything that I possibly could - construction techniques, proportions, surface treatments and finishes. The show "Flesh and Spirit" is at the Hillsborough Arts Council Gallery and runs through Nov. 23. I am showing "the rest" of the dancer sculptures at that venue. I will be showing with Linda Passman and Thomas Stevens. Hope to see you at one (or both) of the openings. For Hillsborough that will be "third Friday" with all galleries open.

On Nov 9 and 10 I will have my annual home sale with painter friend Barb Rohde and Madhu Dev who imports jewelry from India. The dancer sculptures may be seen on my web site cynthiaaldrichpottery.com.

Save The Date: February 15-16, 2014

The Workshop Committee will be announcing the 2014 workshop presenter at the November meeting. Hint: She's a Chapel Hill potter who works in porcelain and loves Japanese Shinos and Celadon glazes.

From Emily Malpass

Urban Ministry's Stone Soup event is coming right up on November 20. We are just under the one-month mark and are very far from our 300 bowl donation need for this event to be a success! Please bring your donation pottery pieces to the Craft Center or Pullen Arts Center as soon as you are able, or bring to the November meeting. Three important things to know:

-ALL KINDS OF POTTERY are welcome and needed! Mugs, bowls, plates, platters, vases...we will take anything in good shape, no cracks, please label clearly if not food safe. Make sure to mark your bag or box of pieces clearly with your name so you are entered into the raffle!

-The deadline to drop pieces at the Craft Center will be Monday, November 18 at 12:30 PM, and you can bring pieces to Pullen Arts Center through Tuesday, November 19 at 3:00 PM.

-On Sunday, October 27 from 1-5 PM, Pullen studio members are invited to come throw a piece or more which we will glaze and add to the donations. Come have a good time throwing for a good cause--talk to Emily Malpass or Anne Terry with questions.

Again, we DO NOT have "leftover" pottery from last year--nearly 300 pieces were exchanged for donations--so we are starting from scratch. Please step up and help us make this important outreach event a strong showing for the guild and a benefit to Urban Ministries!

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

PRESIDENT'S CONFESSION AND CHALLENGE: Dear TPG fellow potters, I have been remiss. Last year, I forgot to contribute to Empty Bowls, which I not only regretted but spent the whole year feeling guilty about. Empty Bowls is a chance for potters to help with Stone Soup, a wonderful fundraiser for Urban Ministries. You can read about it in Emily Malpasse's message too, but it's so important that I want to give the message here as well. The public attends a lunch or a dinner, picks out pots we donated (not just bowls, but ANY pottery), and donates $25 or more per piece. Stone Soup usually raises several thousand dollars for Urban Ministries, thanks to us. Urban Ministries of Raleigh does essential work to help the poor and destitute, as you can see in the information Emily Malpasse provided.

The goal of 300 pots by November 18 comes down to about 3 pots per member.

I AM DONATING 10 POTS, bringing them to the Crafts Center at the November meeting. I CHALLENGE YOU ALL TO BRING 3 POTS or more to the meeting. Let's make our new TPG Welcome Table overflow with donations for Empty Bowls on November 5!

Thank you!

Nancy Schechter, contrite potter
